

Como Hotel

The Como Hotel is a grand construction set in a most picturesque setting with extensive water views of the Georges River. The Hotel is rich in history and is one of the true icons within the Sutherland Shire. No expense was spared in rebuilding the Hotel following the fire of 1996.

The Sutherland Shire region is one of Sydney's most affluent areas with a high level of income expended on leisure activities. With a population base of over 200,000 persons and a limited number of hotels the environment is conducive to a successful business. The Hotel has annual revenue of over $3.64 million and remains in a growth phase.

The design of the Hotel allows for a diverse business to operate efficiently within the premises. The design and quality of furnishings
